Fuze X Guidelines.

A social app for activities: see what people near you are doing, book it, check in and share it.

Introduction

Website designed by the founder. fuzex.io, captured 10 November 2026. Visit fuzex.io

Fuze X is a social platform for activities, on iOS and Android. One app holds a feed of what people near you are doing, booking for classes, gyms, programmes and events with check-in, reviews that can only be left once a ticket has been scanned at the door, ACT reward credits, and Mominto, an AI companion that is part coach, part nutritionist, part buddy. It is built for people who live for experiences, and has a side for the venues and partners that host them.

The logo and the website are the founder's. The logo is traced from the founder's own file, not redesigned, and the colour, type and voice are taken from fuzex.io first, so the logo and the site are one brand.

Fuze X should feel like the friend who always knows what's on tonight: warm, quick and in motion, set in the city's real places. The X is two swooshes meeting in one, the moment a plan and a person fuse, so every surface pairs one person with one thing to do, now.

The word comes first and the X follows it, in the founder's proportions. Use the full logo wherever there is room; the X alone for the app icon, the profile picture, the favicon and as a sign-off. FUZE is always italic and the X always keeps its two swooshes, blue and orange, turned about one another. Never redraw, respace or reorder the logo.

Mark construction

The X is two swooshes of height h: the lower is the upper turned 180° about the centre, 0.1h below it. Each S-bend is cut from circles of about half h, repeated point for point in the turned half.

FUZE X is set on one cap height and one baseline, the letters slanting at about 80°; the X repeats the mark's two swooshes.

Signature

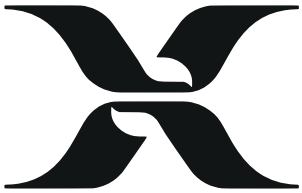

The founder's logo as fuzex.io uses it: white letters and the blue and orange X, on Ink or on the site's warm orange hero.

On Paper and other light grounds the letters turn Ink. The X doesn't change.

Three cuts

The X

The founder's X, its gradient sampled from the original file. The app icon, the profile picture, the sign-off.

Flat X

Two flat colours, azure and orange, split where the gradient turns. For 32 px and below, embroidery and two-colour print.

One colour

Ink alone, or white: stamps, wristbands, one-colour prints.

Small sizes

Logo, 96 px wide

The X, 24 px

Flat X, 16 px

Clear space

The logo is traced from the founder's own file, so its proportions are the founder's: 5.06 wide to 1 high, the X 1.6 to 1. Clear space is x on every side, where x is the height of one swoosh, half the logo's height.

Logo on your background

Please don’t

Don’t recolour the X. It is blue and orange.

Don’t stretch or squash the logo.

Don’t move the X in front of the word.

Don’t straighten the italic letters.

Don’t fade it or make it see-through.

Don’t add shadows or glows. The glow belongs to the hero, not the logo.

Taken from fuzex.io first: its Ink and white, its soft greys, Graphite for body text and Fuze Orange as the one accent. The X adds Azure and Cobalt, and Dusk is the deep end of the site's warm hero glow. The app's category colours stay inside the product. CMYK values are a plain device conversion for reference; Fuze Orange and Azure sit outside the print gamut, so proof them first.

Color proportions

Paper and Mist carry most of every surface and Ink carries the words. Fuze Orange is the one accent; the blue and orange together belong to the X.

Tone of voice

Fuze X speaks as fuzex.io already does: a friend who always knows what's on, talking about real plans in short, warm lines. Upbeat, never loud.

The site names the class, the place and the time, and its nudges read like a text from a friend. Reviews come only from people who showed up, so the copy never needs to boast.

The friend who knows what's on weekends. Every Friday, I find something new.

Maya Zong
Student

Mominto knows what I need better than I do. It pushed me to try a yoga class and now I go three times a week.

Aaron Chope
Product Designer

The verified reviews are a game changer. No more wasted trips to overhyped places.

Riya Patel
Marketing Associate

I used to miss every cool event in my city. Now Mominto tells me about them before they sell out. It's like having a friend who's always in the know.

Daniel
Remote Engineer

From gym sessions to concert tickets — Fuze X replaced three apps for me.

Sofia
Fitness Enthusiast

Fuze X keeps me grounded. Even on my busiest days, I find time for one activity I actually want to do.

Arjun Mehta
Software Developer

The ACT rewards are addictive in the best way. I've earned enough for a free class this month.

Leo Martinez
Graphic Designer

Mominto swapped my HIIT for stretching last week because my recovery was low. I didn't know an app could care about that.

Zara Hassan
Yoga Instructor

I've finally stopped scrolling and started doing. Fuze X makes it stupidly easy to book something and show up.

Meera Shah
Content Writer

Found my new favorite café through Fuze X's social feed. The reviews don't lie when they're ticket-backed.

Omar Farouk
Photographer

I actually book stuff now. Before Fuze X, I'd scroll through five apps and give up.

Hannah Kang
Nurse

I booked my first rock climbing class on a whim through Fuze X. Now I can't stop.
